1. PROVEN EXPERIENCE

SigmaPro people all have extensive experience in business improvement, managing change and in particular Lean Six Sigma. Many of our consultants have been working in business improvement since the 1980's, and this real world experience helps us to provide you with real solutions to overcome the challenges faced within your organisation.

To ensure we come up with the solution that meets your precise needs, we integrate the best of Lean Six Sigma and other business improvement methods into our approach. We develop the people within your organisation, so that when our work is done, you can continue to reap the benefits.

Since formation, SigmaPro has trained over 10,000 people across the world at all levels in many different sectors, and for many different organisations, from blue chips to ambitious smaller companies.

2. COMMITMENT

We want to fully understand your requirements before we tailor the best possible training and consulting package for your business situation. We are totally committed to providing the support, tools and methods necessary to help you stay ahead of your competitors and maximise the effectiveness of your operations.

3. INTEGRATED APPROACH

Our programmes are designed by practitioners for practitioners. We care about the theory but practical application is paramount.

4. PEOPLE

All of our consultants and trainers are carefully selected and without exception have excellent academic skills and in depth practical experience.

As well as a commitment to the ongoing development of our own people, the continuous review of the quality of our programmes ensures you will benefit from the most up-to-date information.

5. TRACK RECORD OF SUCCESS

We consistently help companies to increase revenues, improve customer satisfaction, enhance workforce productivity, reduce capital spend and improve lead times.

With SigmaPro, your investment will not only deliver real value in the short term but will also be yielding results long after the initial training and deployment have been completed.

We evaluate the results of our programmes through regular client and delegate surveys.

6. INNOVATION

We continuously invest in the development of our training programmes, all of which are founded on detailed research into what truly works and creates value for organisations.

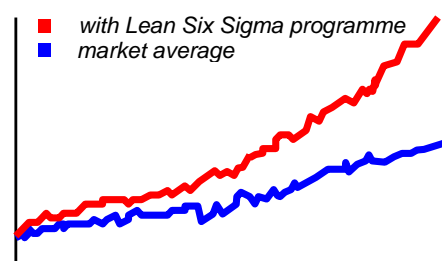

Any investment decision should be considered carefully, with SigmaPro you can be sure that not only will your investment help you today, it will still be yielding results long after the initial training and deployment has been completed. Talk to SigmaPro today to make an investment in the future of your organisation

Our portfolio of services incorporates interactive training, e-learning, energising simulations and leading edge learning methods. Our training students are equipped with the ability to put theory into practice.

7. RETURN ON INVESTMENT (ROI)

Sustainable value and breakthrough results for your organisation is our focus. Industry surveys show that a Lean Six Sigma project is typically worth at least £100,000.

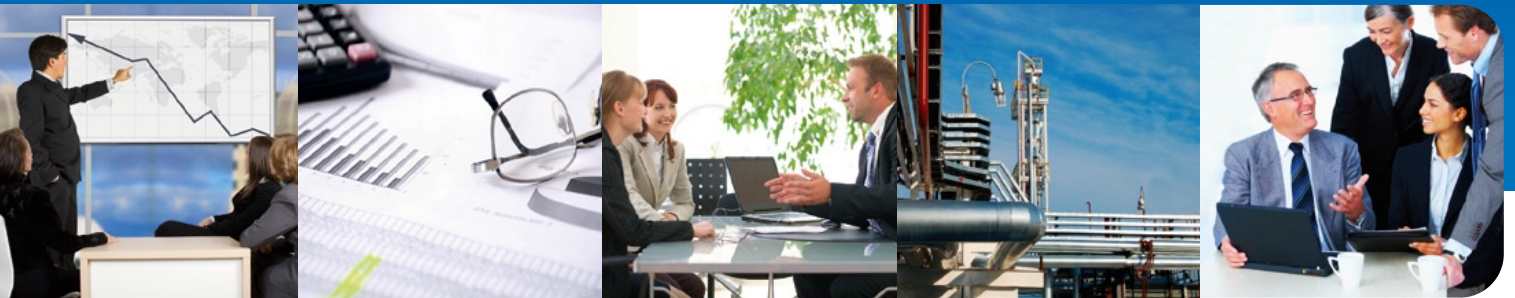

Many SigmaPro clients achieve far higher returns, and our own studies have shown ROI figures over 4:1 in the first year. We'll help you unlock the potential in your organisation.
